Defending Professionals in Financial Services

Offshore financial centres such as the Cayman Islands, BVI, Guernsey and Jersey continue to prove themselves among the most attractive jurisdictions, with ever-increasing numbers of funds, partnerships and trusts choosing those locations as their place of establishment.

As a result, directors, trustees and other office-holders (as well as their professional indemnity insurers) increasingly require independent legal counsel in respect of disputes, litigation and regulatory action.

Our partner-led litigation teams advise on matters of Cayman Islands, BVI, Guernsey and Jersey law, with experience of advising and acting for directors, officers and other service providers.

With tier-one ranked teams and individuals, and a deep track record in acting on professional negligence, contractual and fiduciary duty disputes, we understand the issues at stake for individuals drawn into civil disputes.

In each of our jurisdictions we have acted on some of the longest-running and most complex cases before the courts, as well as in arbitrations.
